Introduction: The name “Bratachari” (ব্রতচারী) thus denotes one who has solemnly undertaken the duty of building up his or her life through the systematic and integrated pursuit to the five bratas. In the general sense, those who observe a vow with a single mind for the fulfillment of an aspiration are called “Bratacharis”. Labour, knowledge, truth, unity and joy are the five vows of a “Bratachari”. “Bratachari” made its debut in 1932 as a public educational institution founded by Gururji Gurusaday Dutta, the father of “Bratachari”. “Bratachari” can be called a social movement in the context of British rule. The “Bratachari” movement was developed with great enthusiasm in the country. In 1940, “Bratachari” was established in Joka area of Thakurpukur in South-24-Parganas in Bengal, which is named Bratachari village. The main aim of this movement was to create spiritual and social development, patriotism, national consciousness.

Objects: A “Bratachari” is not confined to any particular category. The way to achieve fulfillment in the life of all people irrespective of caste, religion. It contains elements of collective joy and unity through various activities. “Bratachari” wants to give the people of every country full freedom, strength, solidarity, peace, progress, consciousness and joy inside and outside.

Outcomes: The Bratacharis undertake to perform good deeds, strengthen fellowship and develop the mind and body through dance. The camp aimed to raise the self-esteem, national awareness and physical-mental health of the students.

Description of activities:
