

14
 (Diseased Mind) - The concept of a diseased mind is a complex one, involving various factors such as genetics, environment, and social influences. It is often characterized by a loss of touch with reality, which can manifest in different ways, such as delusions, hallucinations, and disorganized thinking. The term 'diseased mind' is used to describe a state of mental illness that is severe enough to require medical attention.

The concept of a diseased mind is a complex one, involving various factors such as genetics, environment, and social influences. It is often characterized by a loss of touch with reality, which can manifest in different ways, such as delusions, hallucinations, and disorganized thinking. The term 'diseased mind' is used to describe a state of mental illness that is severe enough to require medical attention.

The concept of a diseased mind is a complex one, involving various factors such as genetics, environment, and social influences. It is often characterized by a loss of touch with reality, which can manifest in different ways, such as delusions, hallucinations, and disorganized thinking. The term 'diseased mind' is used to describe a state of mental illness that is severe enough to require medical attention.

The concept of a diseased mind is a complex one, involving various factors such as genetics, environment, and social influences. It is often characterized by a loss of touch with reality, which can manifest in different ways, such as delusions, hallucinations, and disorganized thinking. The term 'diseased mind' is used to describe a state of mental illness that is severe enough to require medical attention.

- i) Schizophrenia (Schizophrenia), characterized by delusions, hallucinations, and disorganized thinking.
- ii) Bipolar disorder (Bipolar disorder), characterized by extreme mood swings, ranging from depression to mania.
- iii) Major depressive disorder (Major depressive disorder), characterized by persistent feelings of sadness and loss of interest in activities.
- iv) Anxiety disorders (Anxiety disorders), characterized by excessive worry and fear.

The concept of a diseased mind is a complex one, involving various factors such as genetics, environment, and social influences. It is often characterized by a loss of touch with reality, which can manifest in different ways, such as delusions, hallucinations, and disorganized thinking. The term 'diseased mind' is used to describe a state of mental illness that is severe enough to require medical attention.

Value education is a process of developing values in the individual. It is a continuous process which starts from childhood and continues throughout life. It is a holistic approach to education which aims at the development of the individual as a whole. It is a process of learning from life and living life. It is a process of learning from the experiences of life and living life. It is a process of learning from the experiences of life and living life.

Value education is a process of developing values in the individual. It is a continuous process which starts from childhood and continues throughout life. It is a holistic approach to education which aims at the development of the individual as a whole. It is a process of learning from life and living life. It is a process of learning from the experiences of life and living life. It is a process of learning from the experiences of life and living life.

Value education is a process of developing values in the individual. It is a continuous process which starts from childhood and continues throughout life. It is a holistic approach to education which aims at the development of the individual as a whole. It is a process of learning from life and living life. It is a process of learning from the experiences of life and living life. It is a process of learning from the experiences of life and living life.

2) Explain the meaning and concept of value education. (3 marks) [10/5 marks]

1. Discuss the meaning and concept of value education. [10/5]

2) Explain the meaning of value education? (3 marks) (2=2 marks)

3) Explain the types of value education? (3 marks) (2=2 marks)